

Five College
Architecture + Design
Lecture
Fall 2007

UMass Amherst
Amherst College
Hampshire College
Smith College
Mount Holyoke College

NORTH-AMERICAN STYLE BUILDINGS: JAPANESE INVENTION

The Introduction and the Development of North American-Style
Buildings in 19th Century Hokkaido, Japan

Sadamasa Komaki, Ph.D.
Associate Professor Department of Architecture
Hokkaido Polytechnic College

Learn how East met West, and West met East in 19th c. Japan through the art of wood architecture to create a fascinating hybrid and example of two-way technology transfer.

4:00-5:15, Bartlett Hall 301, University of Massachusetts Professor Komaki will be speaking to the 19th Century Architecture class of Professor Timothy Rohan, Art History 342.
Additional seating is open to the general public.

5:30 – 7:30, University Club, University of Massachusetts Reception for Professor Komaki, with a lecture synopsis at 6:30, additional commentary by Yasuharu Shinto, the Consulate General of Japan, and the Massachusetts-Hokkaido Association

Sponsored by:
Consulate General of Japan in Boston
The University of Massachusetts Department of Art, Architecture & Art History; Co-hosted by:
The Massachusetts-Hokkaido Association
The Five College Center for East Asian Studies

Thursday, Nov. 8

Lecture: 4:00 - 5:15 pm
301 Bartlett Hall
University of Massachusetts

Reception:
5:30-7:30 pm
University Club

Lecture synopsis: 6:30-7:00 pm
University Club

General Public Welcome

For directions to lecture location and parking information visit: www.umass.edu

contact: Professor Ray K Mann
rkmann@art.umass.edu